BROMPTON

Invention, innovation, imagination. These ideals have been the driving principles at Brompton since the beginning when founder Andrew Ritchie set out to engineer a folding bike to unlock the city. For five decades, Brompton has set the standard for folding bikes.

Refined but never bettered, the original fold transforms the bike into a small, locked package in under 20 seconds. Light enough to carry. Welcome on rush-hour trains. You don't lock and leave a Brompton, it travels with you. So, every day just works.

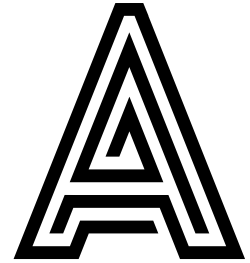

Each bike is handmade and quality assured in our London Factory. The materials and workmanship can withstand years of use. Be good to your Brompton and it will be good to you.
